ENGINEERING SCHOLARSHIPS

Those who attended the University's Congregation on Monday must have been deeply impressed by the words of Sir William Hornell when he made an appeal to engineering students to take up the mechanical and electrical engineering course in preference to the civil engineering course. "We are still," said Sir William, "without any scholarship to help our engineering students to apprenticeships in British works. On the other hand, the Universities China Committee has created scholarships for this purpose and has through the Federation of British Industries organised an agency in Shanghai for awarding these scholarships and arranging for apprenticeships with British firms in England. I am not apprehensive of this competition and our graduates, of course, can compete for these scholarships. I am not apprehensive, provided we can turn out the necessary number of graduates, because I know that our students have made good as apprentices and I know that those British firms who have employed them will want more of them. But if we can't meet the demand, even those firms who want our graduates will naturally go elsewhere."

NOTE OF WARNING

The note of warning struck by Sir William is so forceful that I have taken the liberty to quote him at such length. The Vice-Chancellor stated that the demand to enter the Engineering Faculty was almost greater than the University could meet but that there seemed to be a reluctance to take up the mechanical and electrical engineering course. A graduate who had specialised in mechanical or electrical engineering course who subsequently passes successfully through a good British firm should not have to look far for a reasonable career. This opinion of the Vice-Chancellor cannot be too strongly emphasized and repeated, if only for the benefit of those who are about to enter the University.

EDUCATIONAL LECTURER

From the University I turn to another matter of education. During the week, Mr. Peter Manniche, Principal of the International People's College of Denmark gave several interesting talks on the educational system of that country, particularly in the Folke High School and the International People's College. Mr. Manniche's talk at the Helena May Institute, I thought, was the best of his series on that occasion he gave the audience some of the democratic ideas that are being disseminated at the International People's School. This school caters for people of various nationality and the lectures are in English, German and Danish. The pupils are brought into contact with students from other nationalities and are thus made to appreciate the viewpoint of men of other countries. Just as the social barriers in Denmark were removed by the coming into existence of the Folke High School, so it is the aim of the organisers to remove international misunderstandings by the establishment of International People's Colleges, not only all over Scandinavia, but throughout the world. Those who have heard Mr. Manniche must have been impressed by what he had said, and to use his very own expression, words give us a far better idea of the scope of the International People's College than any amount of books and pamphlets could have done!

COIN SHORTAGE

I am glad to observe that there will be a flood of coins available shortly to meet the needs of the population in regard to small change. Many of us who spend the greater part of the day in the city fail to realise just what the coin shortage means, especially to the poorer section of the community. Things to-day have got to a stage where five-cent pieces are extremely rare and where a premium is placed on copper cents to such a degree that street hawkers refuse to tender nine cents change for a ten-cent piece if a purchase of only one cent was made, for the simple reason that nine copper cents is worth more than a ten-cent piece. This hoarding of copper cents by the poorer section of the community is because they labour under the belief that the shortage will become more and more acute in the near future, and it is therefore comforting to be assured that the possibility of this shortage is extremely unlikely and that notwithstanding the hoarding there will be no want of small change in the Colony.

NEW TERRITORIES SHOW

This is the first opportunity I have had since the holding of the Agricultural Show at New Territories, of commenting upon it. Undoubtedly there is still much room for improvement, but very favourably viewed by the exhibitors, and if the Agricultural Association continue to give the farmers the advice and support that they have been giving hitherto, there is no doubt that the rural population of the New Territories stand to gain much in the near future. There is one observation I should like to make, however, and is the question of education of the farmers. Side by side with the lightening of the toll connected with the practical side of the work, should be some scheme whereby the adult farmers could receive some education of a general nature. The establishment of a few schools for adults in the New Territories would mark a definite step forward by those who are sparing no efforts to assist the farmers.

THE HUMAN BRAIN

I make no apology for drawing attention to the article appeared in the "Daily Press" yesterday on Sir Arthur Keith's prophecy as to man and his brain. Those of us who were fortunate enough to hear a recent lecture delivered at the University by Professor Shellsharpe will be particularly interested in what Sir Arthur Keith has to say. His reference to two different types of civilisation existing side by side to-day is of more than usual interest. His explanation of the fact that the brains of some prehistoric races in South Africa were bigger than our own is also enlightening, for he says it is harder to found civilisation than to maintain it. Here is another observation which might be interesting: "I think the general tendency of civilisation is towards smaller brains. Our lives are parasitic. Not one half of 1 per cent. of us have to tackle original thought. We get it all out of books."

TRAMP EXECUTED AT GRAZ

First Hanging Since Great War

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright)]

Vienna, January 12.—The first execution in Austria since the war took place in Graz on Thursday, when a tramp named Peter Strauss was hanged for setting fire to the home of a farmer who had refused his demands for money. The sentence was imposed under the anti-terrorist decree of November 10, which restricted the death penalty, which was abolished by the Republican Constitution of 1918—for murder, arson, highway robbery and similar crimes.—Transocean Kuo Min.

DISARMAMENT TANGLE

Sir J. Simon Confers With Mr. Henderson

London, January 12.—Sir John Simon, the Foreign Secretary, accompanied by Mr. Strang of the Foreign Office, saw the President of the Disarmament Conference, Mr. Arthur Henderson, at his flat yesterday and informed him of the present position arising out of the "parallel and supplementary efforts" now in progress through diplomatic channels. Mr. Agnides, Director of the Disarmament Section of the League of Nations, was also present. During the conversation Mr. Henderson informed the British Foreign Secretary of the nature of the communications he had received on the question of adequate guarantees for the loyal execution of the convention, on which he had to report to the Conference. Mr. Henderson intimated that he hoped to be able to leave London on Tuesday. He will break his journey at Paris and proceed to Geneva on Wednesday. He hopes to hold a meeting of the officers of the Bureau on Friday in order to take a decision as to the date of meeting of the Bureau. The programme of work adopted by the Bureau on November 22 fixed no date as to when the Conference will resume work, but provides that such resumption shall take place during or after the January meeting of the League Council on a date to be fixed by the President in consultation with the officers of the Bureau. These are the Vice-Chairman, Mr. Pollis, the Rapporteur, Mr. M. E. Benes and the Secretary General of the League Nations, M. Joseph Avenol.—British Wireless Service.

Large Increase in Revenue Last Year

London, January 12.—The gross amount received in Great Britain from motor licenses during last year amounted to £29,201,000, compared with £28,411,000 in the previous 12 months. The number of motor vehicles exclusive of taxicabs and trade licenses, totalled 2,011,800, compared with 1,928,600 the year before. Cars registered for the first time last year showed a considerable increase over the number in 1932.—British Wireless Service.

THAMES FLOOD PREVENTION

Tidal Area From Teddington

The disastrous flood, which occurred on the Thames on January 6-7, 1928, was quickly followed by a conference of local authorities to consider ways and means of preventing future trouble within the County of London. This body recommended that the whole subject of tides in the Thames should receive expert investigation, that a system of flood warnings should be instituted, and that the duty of supervising flood defence works should be laid on the London County Council. The wider question of flooding in the tidal basin as a whole was considered by a conference held in November, 1930, when the opinion was expressed that a single authority operating over the whole of that part of the Thames was needed, while in April, 1931, a Departmental Committee was appointed by the Ministers of Health and Agriculture, to consider the present organisation for the prevention of damage by floods in the tidal portion of the Thames, and to make recommendations as regards the authority to which the duty of carrying out such measures should be entrusted. This Committee, of which Sir William Hart was chairman, has now reported, and recommends that a Joint Committee consisting of representatives of the local authorities concerned, with the Catchment Boards of

ENGINEERING & BUILDING

HIGH-SPEED DIESEL ENGINES

Excellent Case for High-Speed Marine Engine

The Sixth Thomas Lowe Gray Lecture was delivered at a meeting of the Institution of Mechanical Engineers on Friday, December 1, held at Storey's Gate, St. James's Park. The lecturer was Mr. H. R. Ricardo, B.A., F.R.S., who had selected as his subject "High-Speed Diesel Engines for Marine Service." As the rules of the Institution preclude publication of the lecture in full, we are only able to give it in abridged form. This necessitated the exclusion, amongst other things, of the illustrations and of the good-humoured criticism levelled against the heavy Diesel marine engine with which Mr. Ricardo enlivened a somewhat controversial subject. In referring to this rather unusual mode of presentation, it may also be said that Mr. Ricardo's manner of delivering the lecture was much to be commended, in every way the well-chosen pace rendering it capable of being readily followed with the close attention it so thoroughly deserved. The abridgment has been left in the first person singular, the more customary alteration to reported speech in dealing with these lectures not having been adopted.

Mr. Ricardo spoke as follows:—The lecture I am to deliver in memory of the late Mr. Thomas Lowe Gray must deal with marine engineering, a subject in which I am indeed very interested, but about which I can claim no expert knowledge or experience. If, therefore, some of my statements and proposals appear outrageous, I must claim from you that tolerance which is the prerogative of either youth or inexperience. There are times, I think, when the outsider, ignorant of the traditions and quite undeterred by that vast accumulation of superstition which ties the hands of the expert, may happen on a new theme, or at least start a fresh train of thought. I am going to plead the case for the really light high-speed Diesel engine for marine the Essex rivers, the Lee, Medway and Roding, the Thames Conservancy and the Port of London Authority should be appointed to co-ordinate the work of flood prevention in the tidal area from Teddington seawards to survey the area to see what measures of defence are necessary, and to prepare proposals for carrying out such work. It is further suggested that the expenses of this Joint Committee should be met from the rates of the areas affected in proportion to their rateable value, and that in the Catchment Areas the cost of new works should be in accordance with the Land Drainage Act, 1930, and in other areas should fall on the rates, with the proviso that a wide discretion may be exercised in deciding on the areas to be charged, and the proportions which each should pay. Authorities should not, it is considered, be liable for damages caused by a flood, but where complete defence works can only be erected at an unwarrantable cost steps are to be taken to render the use of basements as sleeping quarters unnecessary.

propulsion, though in previous lectures I have touched on this subject and have outlined already elsewhere the proposals I am here going to make. I find it difficult to make out a case for a Diesel engine of any sort in really large or very fast vessels. As the size of unit increases, the steam plant becomes more efficient, relatively lighter, and cheaper; the Diesel engine, however, gains nothing in efficiency, but grows enormously in specific weight, while its constitution grows weaker and its initial cost heavier. There must be a point on the scale of size where the rising curve of the steam plant and the falling curve of the Diesel cross. I submit that that intersection lies somewhere about the 6,000 h.p. mark, and further that it is unlikely to vary much in the near future, since the scope for improvement would appear to be quite as great in the steam plant as its rival. I propose, therefore, to discuss the Diesel engine in terms of power plants of up to, say, 6,000 h.p. and to urge that plants up to this size should be composed of a very large number of very light high-speed units.

When suggesting to any shipbuilder the use of light high-speed engines in preference to the large heavy slow-speed engine, I have always been answered that they could not possibly face the hardships of a sea-faring life, for a marine engine is required to run year in and year out at its maximum power and has to be capable of running on insecure foundations with doubtful alignment. I may reply that he would be a happy shipowner indeed who could keep his vessel at sea for 4,000 hours per year, while the average motor bus runs for fully 5,000. As to running at full power, the so-called full-power rating at which the initial speed trials of large marine Diesel engines are run, corresponds, in an unsupercharged four-cycle engine, to only about 75 lb. per square inch brake mean pressure, yet any ordinary Diesel engine, of the high-speed or low-speed type, can quite easily develop well over 95 lb. per square inch with good economy. Even the rated full power, therefore, is barely 80 per cent. of what the engine is really capable. Again, though I have travelled thousands of miles in large motor ships, in no single instance has the average of the day's run fallen short of the trial speed by less than 10 per cent. The deficiency has usually been nearer 20 per cent. As to the insecure foundations and dubious alignment, I have never discovered that the marine engineer has taken any action in the design or mounting of Diesel engines to meet this difficulty. The high-speed engine, on the other hand, being far more rigid and entirely self-contained, can be so mounted as to require no foundation, and it looks after its own alignment problems. Compared therefore with many of the services in which the small high-speed engine is already employed, that of ship propulsion would appear to be relatively easy, the more so since the speed will be nearly constant and overloading non-existent.—Engineering.

TEMPERATURE CHART

Recently Prepared By Hadfield's

An attractive and useful temperature chart has recently been prepared under the direction of Sir Robert Hadfield, Bart., F.R.S., and the research department of Messrs. Hadfield's Limited Sheffield. The chart measures 21 in. by 9 in., and running down the centre is a conventional thermometer stem. On the right-hand side of the latter are tabulated the melting and boiling points, the Centigrade scale of elements, refractories, steels and other materials, used principally in metallurgy, these being separated into two columns to facilitate reference. On the left-hand side are indicated the temper and temperature colours of steel, together with various natural and industrial temperatures, the remarkably low temperature of -273.05 deg. C. recently obtained by Professor De Haas, of Leyden, being shown. For greater clarity and

USE OF ELECTRICITY IN BUSINESS

Variety and Beauty in the Neon Tube

The neon tube industry is one of the most interesting branches of electrical manufacture that has been developed within the past few years. A striking recent application of it is in the restaurant of one of London's newest stores, where a vast false ceiling is illuminated entirely by neon tubes. Each of the four parabolas constituting the ceiling can be flooded by any desired shade of colour within the considerable range available of reds, greens, and blues. With all the colours mingling a perfect white is obtained writes a special correspondent of "The Times."

Neon lighting can be seen in almost every town of any size in Britain. Its wide and effective application to advertising is plain to all, whether in the form of elaborate devices on shopfronts, the outlining in colour of buildings, or the smaller arresting signs used in window display. The luminous gas discharge tube turns a mere advertising sign to a thing of life and vivid colour. Many forms of research and experiment have combined in bringing neon tube manufacture to its present stage of progress. It is founded on the labours of the research chemist and the experiments of the electrical investigator in the field of electrolytic conductors and pressures. Later, the illuminating engineer and advertising expert, versed in the values of colour-lighting, have also lent the weight of their experience.

BLOWN GLASS

On what may be described as the more practical side the industry owes much to the skill of the glass-blower; and at a further stage of manufacture there enters again the electrical expert who has to solve intricate problems connected with the design of suitable electrodes, transformers, and condensers. Behind all these activities stands the designer of the sign itself.

About forty years ago Sir William Ramsay succeeded in isolating neon, helium, and the other inert gases, and almost contemporaneously, Moore in the United States was beginning the commercial exploitation of luminous discharge tubes. His tubes contained nitrogen. Their great disadvantage at that time, compared with the neon tube, was the rapid cleaning up of the gas, to mitigate which an automatic replenishing device was provided. The first installation on these lines was made at Newark, N.J., in 1904, and other noteworthy uses to which Moore's system was applied were the illumination of the Berlin Ice Palace and Savoy Court, London. A more recent example of interior illumination by means of the Moore tube in a perfected form is to be seen in a London restaurant, where single tube circumscribe the hall, twist round the pillars and emerges in a great circle round the orchestra rostrum, while a second tube illuminates the dance floor.

It is beyond the scope of this article to describe in detail all the factors connected with conductivity, voltage, and atmospheric pressure which, in conjunction with tube dimension and other considerations, had to be investigated before the luminous gas discharge tube could be launched commercially. One fact about the neon light which will impress the non-technical, however, is that it has nothing in common with the heat-provoked radiation of the electric lamp filament. From the point of view of attractiveness and efficiency the neon tube overshadowed the nitrogen tube when it was first introduced in Paris in 1910 by George Claude. It is claimed that a red neon tube is visible for a much greater distance by night and in fog than any other light of equal power.

SHAPING LETTERS

Apart from the very attractive red which is characteristic of the neon sign, other "colours" and shades can be obtained with luminous gas discharge tubes. By adding metallic mercury to neon gas blue is got, and by filtering the blue through uranium (yellow) glass a green is achieved. In the ordinary way the filtering of the blue would lower the efficiency of the green light, but by using uranium glass a strong additional green fluorescence is obtained through the action of the ultraviolet ray component of the mercury radiation. By using argon and helium white or gold can be obtained. In all these cases different shades by using different coloured glass.

In the construction of the tube many kinds of glass—for example, soda, lead and Pyrex—are utilised. If a completed glass is examined in detail very elaborate bends in the glass will be seen, including intricate backward bends into a plane behind the outer surface of the glass. At the same time very sharp angles are avoided because they would impede the path of discharge. This construction is necessary because the electric current must flow from one electrode to the other. For example, if a capital E were made by the glass bender in the ordinary way the short middle stroke would not be illuminated. Like the electrodes, the additional bends, which provide a continuous path along which the current will flow, are blacked out. When the glass-benders have finished their work on the tubular device and the electrodes are in place, the air is exhausted and a small quantity of gas admitted. A further cleansing process is then carried out, after which the tube passes to the ageing bench in order that every impurity may be eliminated, the complete device being finally tested under actual running conditions, with its own transformers, before being packed. It is most essential that the installation of the completed tubular device is carried out by electricians skilled in this particular branch, as much of the efficiency of the luminous gas discharge tube depends on proper erection.

OUTLOOK IN LOCOMOTIVE INDUSTRY

Few orders during recent months have been so welcome, or opportune, as that just placed by the London Midland and Scottish Railway Company, as part of an addition to their ordinary 1934 building programme with Messrs. Vulcan Foundry, Limited, of Newton-le-Willows, Lancashire, for 50 locomotives and tenders. For several years the firm has suffered acutely from the general depression which has overshadowed the locomotive-building industry, and for a considerable time past employment has been found only for a skeleton staff of about 400. The order is for engines of the 4-6-0 type designed for mixed traffic work, and will, it is stated, provide employment for 1,600 men for nine months. There is also an improved outlook at Crewe, where the London Midland and Scottish Railway Company has extensive works. In the last few weeks, it is stated, a considerable number of men have been reengaged, and the hope is entertained that the town will benefit substantially when the company's full 1934 construction programme is announced.—Engineering.

MACAO NEWS

Macao Hockey Club Maintains unbeaten Record

In the presence of the biggest crowd of spectators the Medway officers of Hongkong met the Macao Hockey Club for a friendly match that was certainly the best of the season. Notwithstanding the high class of game put up by the Medway Officers the Macao Hockey Club was successful in maintaining its unbeaten record this season by defeating the visiting team by 3-2. It will be recalled that the last time the Medway Officers visited Macao last year they left the field with the splendid result of 5-2 in their favour.

The public in Macao is showing great appreciation for this kind of sport which is borne out by the large assistance usually given to these matches with the visiting teams from Hongkong.

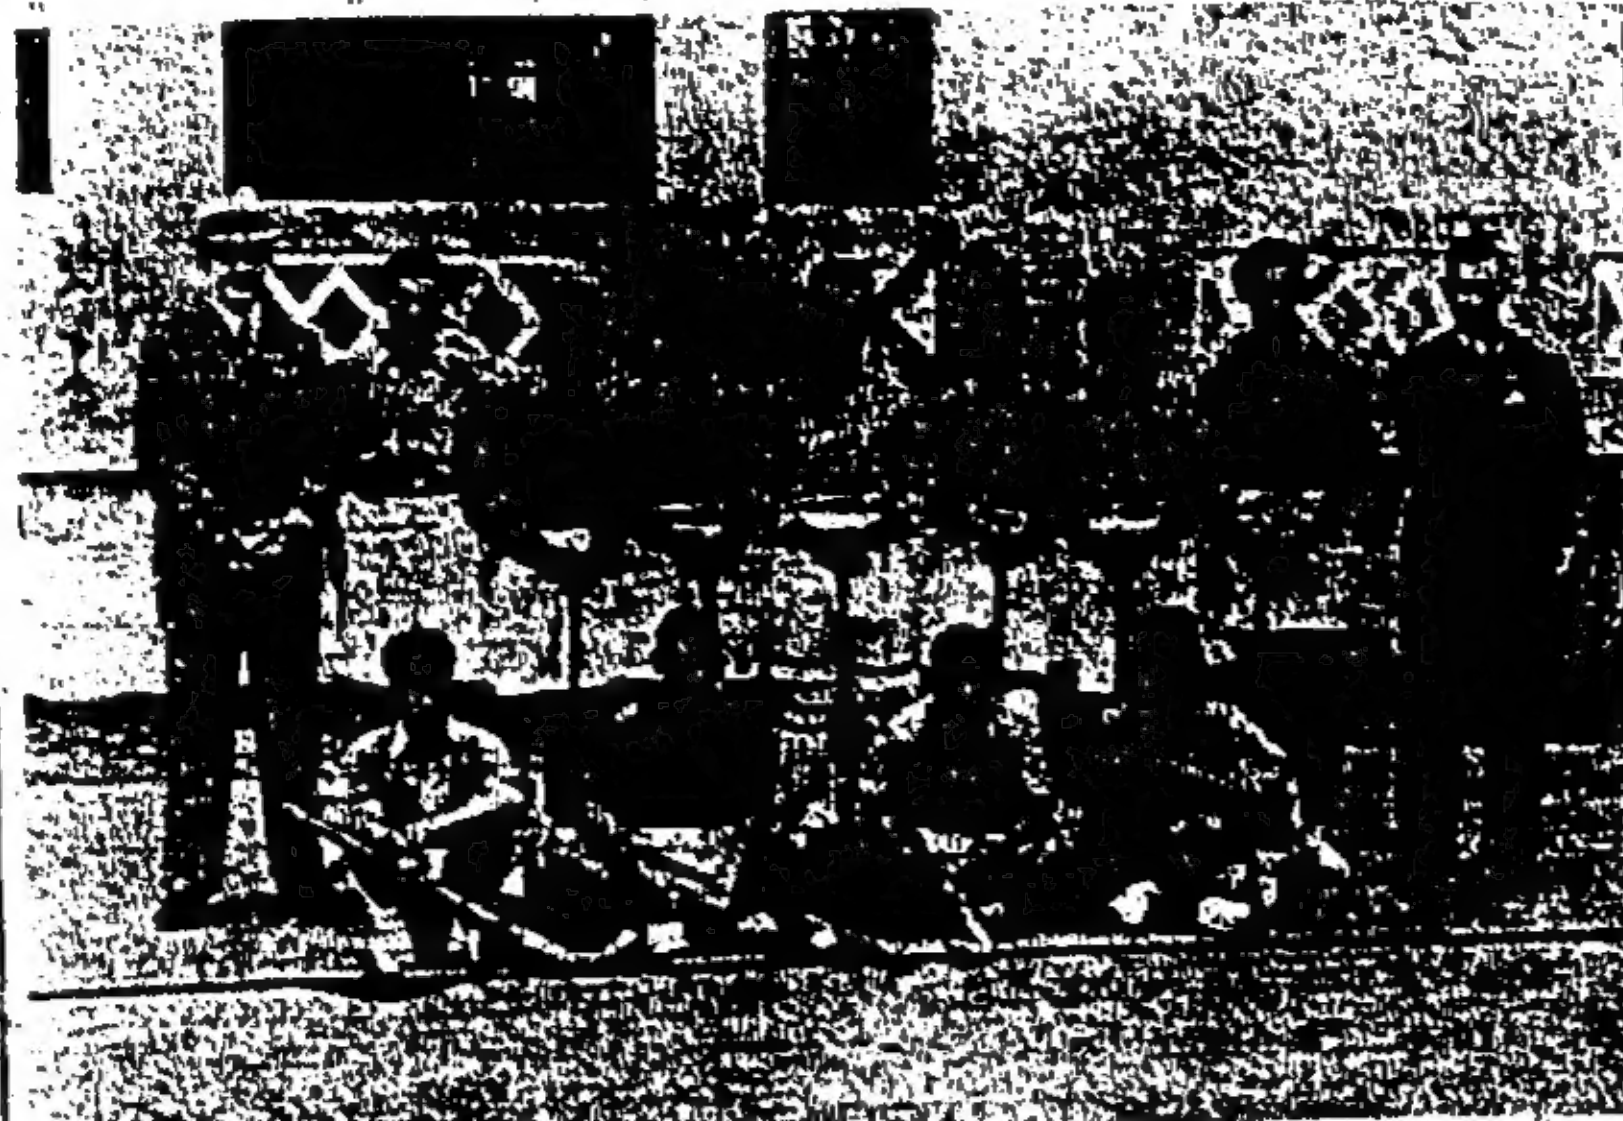

Out of the eight matches with Hongkong teams this season the Macao Hockey Club has been successful in defeating all visitors and we may state that visitors will find that the local Hockey club can certainly put up a good game.

KING OF SLAM TO VISIT

First Britain Then The United States

His Majesty according to present plans will say goodbye to his still be wildered people to-day, January 12. Criticized by correspondents of The Times, criticized by his own countrymen, never physically strong, King Prajadhipok, last of the five sons of King Chulalongkorn and Queen Saowabha, has had a difficult time ever since he ascended the Throne. From his youth upwards the King has always been careful and living within his income. Those accustomed to the vast expenditures and prodigious liberality of the late monarch, (which the State finally liquidated) were inclined to protest at the retrenchments practised at Court at the beginning of the reign. But it soon came to be realised that His Majesty maintained the royal dignity and splendour quite as efficiently as his predecessor on the Chakri throne, and at much less cost to the State—and his own private purse.

A tired, and perhaps disillusioned man, is leaving his own country in search of a renewed lease of health. Gradually during the past few months the King has become separated from the members of the Royal House, his near relatives, who have gone to live outside the confines of their country. The break-up of the Chakri Dynasty, now being presented in so many acts and scenes to a nation which understands not what is happening before its eyes, and which, if it did, would probably protest, provides a tragedy for the historian of the future to dwell upon. Lord Northcliffe wrote in "My Journal Round the World" in 1921 "Siam is a nation in miniature, what will be their future? That seemed an impertinence then, now it is of interest to many people."

Harbour Works In Portugal

Extensive harbour improvements are being carried out at Funchal, Madeira Island, and the Council of Ministers has just approved the total of £3,000,000 for this purpose. The general plan comprises amongst other improvements the construction of a landing pier 317 metres long. The works now being proceeded with will considerably improve the harbour of Funchal which is frequently visited by the biggest tourist liners and by ships plying between Europe and South America and Africa.

The Port of Setubal in Portugal will also benefit by the Government policy of improving the continental harbours with the allotment of £500,000 and Aveiro will finally have achieved its aim with the generous donations from public funds of £183,300 for harbour improvements.

TRYING TO WREST NEW BULLET SECRET

Secret Service Men Shadow Inventor

Secret Service Agents of several European countries are seeking to wrest from Dr. H. Gerlich, the German inventor, the secret of his "Winged Horror" bullet—most deadly ever known—and the special rifle from which it is fired.

Dr. Gerlich, after spending many months in a village in Kent, went recently to Denmark. Recently he bought a castle on the island of Funen, within easy reach of a great Danish armaments works, where he is carrying on his experiments.

Meanwhile, officers of the Special Branch of Scotland Yard are making inquiries about Dr. Gerlich.

In Denmark, too, his activities are the subject of investigation, and the Minister of Justice is considering whether he shall be allowed to remain in the country.

Dr. Gerlich—who comes originally from Kiel—is experimenting in the Schultz and Larsen arms factory at Otterup, in the Isle of Funen, with a new type of rifle.

It has a special tapering barrel and is designed to fire the "Halgar-Ultra" bullet, which, according to the inventor, travels at 3,800 feet a second, of nearly 4,000 m.p.h.—as it leaves the muzzle.

This is more than twice normal bullet velocity.

The Halgar-Ultra is nicknamed the "Winged Horror" because of its "fins" or wings on the casing, and because of its terrible "explosive" nature on impact.

Will Pierce Armour. It travels at such a speed that it penetrates the finest armour plating half an inch thick, blasting a hole double its own size.

Its effect on a man would be incredibly horrible, since the wound would be similar to that of the "dumdum" bullet—which spread on striking its object—while the velocity of the projectile would render its penetrating qualities a hundred times more deadly.

While Dr. Gerlich has talked fairly freely about his bullet, he has maintained the utmost discretion about the explosive used to propel it and the barrel from which it must be fired.

These, accordingly, are two of the secrets which War Ministries and armaments manufacturers are seeking to wrest from him.

M. Larsen Speaks. M. Larsen, one of the heads of the great Danish armament factory at Otterup, talked to a special correspondent of the "Daily Herald" about Dr. Gerlich's activities.

"How," asked the correspondent, "did you get in touch with Dr. Gerlich?"

"He came to us," was the reply, "and asked us to conduct experiments with his new arms."

"What are you getting out of it?"

"We have an arrangement under which, when the experiments are concluded, we shall manufacture the new arms."

"Then we shall put our cards on the table."

"The model on which we are working at present," M. Larsen went on, "is a special type of rifle-muzzle for use with Dr. Gerlich's latest projectile."

"This projectile is of high velocity, which will greatly increase the accuracy of shooting."

"A Revolution"

"It is not unnatural for Dr. Gerlich to come to us and not to go to a German firm. We are known in all parts of the world for our rifles. Dr. Gerlich does not live in Kiel any longer—he has not been there for years."

"He spends most of his time in England, but is anxious to make his future home in Denmark."

Dr. Gerlich has with him at the factory his German sales manager, Herr Kern.

At the Grand Hotel at Odense (Funen) the correspondent saw Herr Kern.

"The doctor's discovery," he explained, "will mark a revolution in the theory of firearms."

"The bullet will travel at hitherto unknown speeds. So much so that there will be no need to worry, for instance, about the distance an aeroplane has travelled from the time the rifle is fired."

Can Hit Aeroplane. "The marksman will be able to hit any point on an aeroplane, no matter what its speed."

The presence of Dr. Gerlich and Herr Kern has caused a big stir in Denmark.

The Danish Foreign Office stated last night in response to inquiries—

"The case of the two German engineers is at present before the Ministry of Justice, which will decide if they shall be allowed to stay."

SAYINGS OF THE WEEK

When do crowd haters become themselves a crowd.—Mr. Oliver Stewart.
When it took days instead of hours for foreign Governments to reach London, and when Ambassadors took weeks and months over their exchange of despatches, there was far less danger of war than there is to-day. Mr. A. A. Baumann.
This long-winded trial.—General Goering.
Perhaps the most practical and successful effort of our present system of public instruction is that the village children no longer talk like ignorant inhabitants of Sussex or Suffolk; they now talk like enlightened inhabitants of Hoxton and Houndsditch.—Mr. G. K. Chesterton.
We are spending £38,000,000 a year on the Army, and yet the position is rather like a man standing under Vesuvius with a parasol hoping to keep off the eruption.—
Major-General J. F. C. Fuller.
That regime of scolding, slapping, petting, and neglect which is the method of the untrained mother all the world over.—Mr. H. G. Wells.
London is the result of compromise, a compromise between Earth and Water, between the German and the Latin, between the State and the Individual, between Novelty and Habit, between Sun and Fog.—Mr.
Paul Morand.
The English hold that the expert should be on top, but not on top.—
Mr. Walter Elliot.
Christ's substitution of "Love your enemies" for "An eye for an eye and a tooth for a tooth" is perhaps the most difficult principle for the energetic spirit of the Germans.—Cardinal Faulhaber.

BERKELEY SQUARE

At The King's

Long awaited as an event of cinematic importance, Fox Film's production of "Berkeley Square" opens to-day at the King's Theatre.

This picture, the fourth independent effort by Jesse L. Lasky has been produced on an elaborate scale, somewhat similar to "Cavalcade". The picture was directed by Frank Lloyd, maker of "Cavalcade", and boasts a notable cast headed by Leslie Howard and Heather Angel.

"Berkeley Square", which played twice in London and for eight months on Broadway as a play is unusual in theme. The story concerns itself with a man of the present who believes the past still exists. His desire to take himself back 150 years becomes so great that he forgets the present and finds himself living in the eighteenth century. As a man of the present living in the past, Leslie Howard finds he has many difficult problems to solve, the most important of which is his love for Heather Angel. The mutual attraction of these two people, each from a different era, gives "Berkeley Square" the unusual touch that has made it the talk of the country. Leslie Howard who has a difficult role to portray, is said to give an inspired performance that outdoes any of his former roles. Heather Angel who is seen opposite Howard plays her most important role to date. The remaining members of the cast include Valerie Taylor, Irene Browne, Olaf Hytten, Beryl Maerker, Colin Keith-Johnston, Alan Mowbray, Juliette Compton, Betty Lawford, Ferdinand Gottschalk, Samuel Hindle and David Torrence.

SUPERNATURAL

At The Central

How unscrupulous spirit mediums employ sleight-of-hand tricks to dupe the gullible out of large fortunes yearly is demonstrated in "Supernatural", a tale of the spirit world, which comes to the Central Theatre on Wednesday with Carole Lombard, Randolph Scott and Vivienne Osborne in the leading roles.

"Supernatural" is a sympathetic story of spiritualism, but one of the major characters in the story is a "phony" spiritualist, who toys with forces he does not comprehend. The film reveals how he uses various tricks to produce apparent spirit effects.

A brass trumpet, thrown casually on the table, starts to utter words apparently from spirits; a table dances; spirit messages are written mysteriously on a slate; spirit rappings are heard; and numerous other phenomena take place. The film shows how he does them all.

The story centres around Miss Lombard, a wealthy young heiress, who upon the death of a beloved twin brother, becomes easy prey for a fake spiritualist—a role played by Allan Dinehart. In the meantime, Miss Osborne, betrayed by Dinehart, is executed in the electric chair for murder. H.B. Warner, as psychologist, is attempting an experiment upon the murderers to prevent her spirit from wreaking the revenge which he is sure it is plotting. But the experiment goes amiss, and the spirit of the murdered enters into the body of Miss Lombard, and plans to use the girl to wreak vengeance on Dinehart.

LUXURY LINER

Dramatic Film Coming To Queen's

"Luxury Liner", a dramatic cross-section of life aboard a magnificent transatlantic steamship, commences to-day at the Queen's Theatre with George Brent, Zita Johann, Vivienne Osborne, Alice White, Verree Teasdale, C. Aubrey Smith and Frank Morgan heading its "passenger list".
The film spills the drama of the vessel from stateroom to first cabin, exposing the intimate lives of the men and women bound from Germany to New York. A harassed doctor, trailing his wife, who has eloped with another man; a powerful financier, even on the voyage, playing with stocks and women; an opera singer; a girl in staterooms plotting her own charms to get her self aboard; an elevator operator, posing as a ship's officer before gazing girl passengers; a dying mother, keeping herself alive longer, enough to see her son in New York; once more, these are among the many whose lives are dissected by the camera.

Brent, as the physician, and Miss Johann, as his nurse, are the figures about whom the story weaves. He has succeeded in getting himself appointed ship's doctor for the voyage so that he can trail his wife, who is aboard, and try to get her back to him. But he is called continuously from one part of the vessel to another to administer to ailing passengers, and he gets hardly a glimpse of her. The mere glimpses, however, are enough to drive her to desperate measures, which have a dramatic effect on the lives of every one aboard the ship. The picture reaches a startling climax when she takes steps, which leave Brent and Miss Johann free.

"TARZAN THE FEARLESS"

At The Central

Tarzan, that most glamorous of all aravistic fictional characters, has at last come to the screen in the form best adapted to reveal the amazing adventures of this jungle creature by Edgar Rice Burroughs, "Tarzan the Fearless" is the title of this epochal serial, produced by Sol Lesser for Principal Pictures, which is in twelve thrilling chapters, the first of which will be shown at the Central.

Buster Crabbe, world-champion swimmer, who is accounted the most perfect specimen of young manhood yet to appear on the screen, plays the title role of the lad who was reared in the jungle and lived like the apes. Playing prominent roles are Jacqueline Wells, Edward Woods, Matthew Beltz, and Frank Mackteen. The serial was directed by William Lord Wright from a story by Basil Dickey and George Plympton based on the original of Edgar Rice Burroughs.
"Tarzan the Fearless" is no claimed a new and revolutionary idea in the production of serials. Each chapter condenses the thrills of a feature in high-pressure action and builds up to a climax that leaves the audience keyed-up and in suspense for the succeeding chapter. The serial recounts the adventures of a small band of explorers led by Doctor Brooks, an archeologist, who have gone into the African jungles seeking to prove the existence and learn the origin of a lost white tribe. The serial gets under way with the capture of Doctor Brooks in the sacred temple of the tribe of Zar, his sentence to imprisonment and probable death, lest he carry back to civilization tidings of the lost people and their god, Zar of the Emerald Fingers.

BALANCE SHEET ISSUE.

Prosecution Withdraw Case.

Yeung King In, Chairman of the Board of Directors and Treasurer of the Yellow Taxi Cab Co., Ltd., and Cheng Yu, Managing Director of the Company, were yesterday discharged by Mr. Hamilton, before whom they had previously appeared on charges of having issued false balance sheets.

The case first came before Mr.
Hamilton on December 18, and there were several remands to enable the defending solicitor, Mr.
M. K. Lo, to go into the case with the prosecuting solicitor, Mr. F. X.
D'Almada, senr.

The first-named defendant was accused of having intended to deceive the shareholders of the Company, by making, circulating or publishing, or concurring in making, circulating or publishing, a false balance sheet for 1932, and the second-named with having embezzled a sum of $80 received by him on behalf of the Company.

Mr. D'Almada yesterday morning asked for permission to withdraw the prosecution, because, he said, he thought it was only a matter of the accounts having been badly kept.

Civil Matter.

Mr. Lo remarked that his view on the prosecution was that it was purely a civil matter, and arose out of certain disputes about the internal management of the Company. As the withdrawal was on the basis that it involved no reflection on the two accused in-question, he asked that as far as the Court was concerned the two accused leave without a stain on their characters.

Mr. Hamilton said he concurred with that view, and both accused were discharged.

ATTACK ON MRS. HUNTER.

House Boy Before the Court.

The youth employed by Mrs.
Hunter who was recently arrested was brought before Mr. Wynne Jones yesterday charged with assaulting Mrs. Hunter with intent to cause her grievous bodily harm.

Mr. J. A. Fraser, Assistant Attorney General prosecuted. After he had outlined the case, evidence was given by the defendant's father to show he was under sixteen years of age.

Mrs. Hunter giving evidence, said that the defendant was engaged seven or eight months ago, and had been recommended by a former cook. The defendant, so far as Mrs. Hunter could say had had no quarrel with anyone.

It would seem from what Mrs.
Hunter said that just after tiffin, on the day she was attacked, she told the defendant to buy some bread. After tiffin, her husband and daughter left the house after which the defendant washed the dishes and Mrs. Hunter dried them.

The defendant asked if anyone was coming for tea and on being told that no one was coming, went out at about 2 o'clock being told to return at about a quarter to five to take the dog out for a walk.

Defendant returned at about 4 o'clock and was asked if he had brought the bread. He replied with something which witness did not catch. He then went out to the kitchen and later witness went into the hall where she saw defendant with a knife. She had not called the defendant who stood facing her with the knife in his right hand, smoothing it out with his left.

"Master says this belongs A. Chung's knife," he said and straight away struck at witness cutting her face and head on the right side. "I put up my left hand to save my head and he struck at my wrist."

Mrs. Hunter said she then began to scream and the defendant left her, going away through the kitchen door. Mrs. Hunter went into the bath room and bathed her wrist, but collapsed, with the tap running.

After medical evidence had been given with regard to Mrs. Hunter's injuries, the hearing was adjourned.

THE MEANING OF NON-VIOLENCE

Lecture on Gandhi by Miss Muriel Lester

FIVE VOWS OF HIS FOLLOWERS

An inspiring lecture was delivered at the Cathedral Hall yesterday by Miss Muriel Lester on Gandhi. The lecture followed the annual meeting of the Hong Kong Peace Group.

Miss Lester gave her audience a very clear conception of what is meant by Gandhi's policy of non-violence. She spoke of his visit to England to the Round Table Conference and of how he preferred to live in the East End of London instead of at the West End or in the homes of the rich and the influential, many of whom were eager to be his hosts.

BATTLE FOR THE UNTOUCHABLES

While Gandhi was in England, said Miss Lester, practically every newspaper in the country had a column each day about the Indian leader, but the writers very rarely got beneath the surface of the great leader so as to give the people a true idea of the man himself. Many people thought of Gandhi only as a man who had done a great deal of propaganda against the British Empire, but Miss Lester thought those people did not really know him. Six and a half years ago, Miss Lester accepted an invitation to go to India, and while there, stayed with Gandhi and his camp followers for she wanted to learn all she could about the man.

She arrived in India on Gandhi's 57th birthday and spent a whole month there, little dreaming what it would lead to. She had the good fortune to see what was happening in India and realised that what she had heard of the work that was being done among the villagers, the coolies and the untouchables by scores of his followers all over the country.

Visits England

When Gandhi decided to accept the British Government's invitation to the Round Table Conference, Miss Lester wrote to him asking him to stay at Kingsley Hall, Bow, as she knew he would accept, and he did. On his arrival the Government put the most splendid houses and hotels at his disposal at West End and all sorts of people offered him their homes but Gandhi preferred Kingsley House, simply because he knew it was there that he would find an atmosphere similar to that in his own Ushram. People used to go to Bow and beg Miss Lester to persuade Gandhi to leave for more luxurious places, but he would not do so. He said: "I will not spend one night away from Bow, for here I consider, I am doing the real Round Table Conference work."

Although Lancashire mill hands have been thrown out of work by Gandhi's activities, they invited him to visit them, and Gandhi accepted their invitation and had a very pleasant time.

The Five Vows

The vows that Gandhi and his followers were trying to keep were five in number. The first one was the rule of non-stealing. Gandhi felt that "if you had more than you need while others had less than they need, then you are stealing."

To illustrate the rule Miss Lester said that one of the Universities in India, built entirely on Indian money on splendid lines, invited Gandhi to address them. They were very proud of the University because they had built it without the help of Government Funds. Gandhi addressed them thus: "I know you congratulate yourselves on having this splendid university and you are glad to think it does not come from anyone except our own people. You have no right to it at all. You have no right to the luxuries and the facilities you are enjoying. But as you are here, remember that these good things are not given you by the millionaires and the rich people. Every one of the amenities you have is given you by the half-starved peasants and coolies and unless you leave here in real service to them, not from on top, but by joining them, and by lifting up the whole level of national life, in volunteer service, you will be in debt to your dying day."

The second vow is that of purity in words, deed and thought.

The Fast

The third vow is the purity of the palate. The object is not to eat or drink for the sake of pleasure, but only to do so to make us live.

In connection with this vow, Miss Lester explained that one could not go to India without realising the terrific poverty of the people. In one of the Royal Commission reports, it was stated that about 25 per cent of the population of India did not know what it was like to have a full stomach. The average earning of an Indian, it was computed, was 24d per day. Gandhi therefore decided to cut down his food expenditure to that standard. Gandhi seemed to thrive very well on his simple diet, for when he was in Kingsley Hall, he slept on the roof with his cotton garments, and seemed to be quite warm in spite of the piling December weather.

Non-Violence

The fourth vow was that of non-violence. It was Gandhi's belief that if you faced the aggressor and did him no violence, then even if he killed you, you have done some good, for the killer would be made to realise that he had done something wrong. This principle was akin to what one found in the Bible where Jesus said: "God forgive them, for they know not what they do."

The fifth was the vow of truth. The principle was to tell the truth whatever the consequence, so that one could go about fearlessly and without any twinge of the conscience.

Miss Lester told of the wonderful work that is being done among the villagers, who had previously been in the grip of moneylenders. By being encouraged to spin yarn in their homes, by which they earned a few pennies a week, they have been able to keep the money lender away from the door.

Miss Lester told of how the high class Brahmins and their ladies, who have been accustomed to a life of seclusion, came out upon Gandhi's appeal and assisted in the picketing of wine and opium shops in spite of the fact that hundreds were arrested for so doing. So powerful was this campaign against wine and opium that Government now derives very little revenue from these sources, while at one time the licences for these establishments found no bidders.

The speaker made such an impression upon the audience that when she sat down, it was in an atmosphere of tense silence. The Rev. Mr. Riechelt then proposed a vote of thanks, to which both Mr. R. A. D. Forrest and the Chairman, Rev. Mr. Allen joined.

DORMAN LONG & CO.'S RECORD

1,500 Tons Of Steel Erected In 31 Weeks

Another record has been achieved in Britain through Dorman Long & Co., Ltd., of Middlesbrough and London.

The contract for the new Spill-ers Flour Mill at Avonmouth stipulated that the steelwork had to be in position in 8 weeks. This included the survey of the site, the preparation of the working details, the manufacture of the steel and rolling of the materials at the Mills, the delivery and unloading at the site and the actual erection of the steel members.

This was duly achieved by Dorman Long who took 41 weeks from the receipt of the order to effect the first delivery at the site, and then only 31 weeks to erect the entire 1,500 ton steel framework. Nothing like this has ever been achieved before and it serves as a convincing proof of the economy in time alone made possible by the use of steel in the construction of buildings.

MR. SMITH

The late Mr. Smith passed away at the Royal Hospital on Wednesday afternoon after an illness of over a month. A native of Portsmouth, the deceased was for 24 years in the Civil Branch Office of the Naval Establishment. During the war he served with the Royal Engineers, rising to the rank of Sergeant Major before his discharge. It was known that he was badly gassed during the war and this was said to have aggravated his condition when he was admitted to the hospital last month.

Since then he had been sinking gradually and on last Monday oxygen had to be applied, but unfortunately this did not save his life. He was 49 years of age and leaves a widow and a child at Portsmouth to whom the deepest sympathy is extended.

The funeral took place last evening at the Protestant Cemetery. The Rev. Noel Chamberlain, chaplain of the Royal Naval Yard, conducted the service, and there was a large gathering present which included Commodore Frank Elliot, Engineer Captain Hugh, the Chief Engineer and Assistant Engineer of the Naval Yard, Commander E. RICH CHINESE SENTENCED

Wealthy Manila Resident Given Gaol Term

Manila, Jan. 8. Mariano Cu Unjeng, one of the wealthiest Chinese in the Philippines, to-day was sentenced to serve from four to eight years in Bilibid Prison following his conviction on a charge of estafa involving P.1,411,412.

The trial is believed to have been one of the longest in the annals of any court. Hearings began on October 30, 1931, and lasted continuously, with the exception of a few brief recesses, until November 6, 1933, more than two years. Scores of witnesses were called and thousands of pages of testimony taken during this protracted period, while the defendant spent days in the witness box under examination by the prosecutor and his own attorneys.

The charge was based upon the forgery of bonded warehouse receipts which were negotiated with the Hongkong and Shanghai Banking Corporation.

Simultaneously with the prison sentence, the Court to-day handed down decisions in these civil cases, ordering the defendant and his father, Mr. Guillermo A. Cu Unjeng, to pay a total of P.1,338,797 to three plaintiffs, the National City Bank of New York, Malabon Sugar Co. and Smith-Bell Co.

Mr. Guillermo A. Cu Unjeng, who came to the Philippines 53 years ago, penniless, testified that his fortune now exceeds P.10,000,000.

Defendant's attorneys immediately announced that he is the Supreme Court—United Press.

H.K. AMUSEMENTS

Annual Meeting Again Postponed

A further adjournment of three weeks was decided upon at the postponed Annual meeting of the Hongkong Amusements Limited yesterday, over which Mr. G. M. Noronha presided. Others present were Messrs. Mat Sul Chui, Mr. H. J. Armstrong, Mr. D. L. Strellett, Mr. P. Sin, Mr. G. K. Hall, Bruton, Mr. D. M. Biggar, Mr. T. A. Barry (for Mr. Li Tse Fong) and Mr. C. S. Rosset.

In asking for an adjournment, Mr. Strellett said: I beg to propose a further adjournment of the meeting for a period of three weeks from to-day. We understand that the object for which the meeting was adjourned on the previous occasion may be achieved in the near future, namely the settlement of important outstanding questions between this Company and certain interests in Shanghai and from inquiries it would appear to be necessary for this adjournment, as I have proposed, in order to enable considerable formalities to be completed. I still think it is desirable that the effort should not be relaxed in arriving at a settlement and I therefore propose this adjournment.

Mr. D. M. Biggar seconded the proposal, which on being put to the meeting was carried unanimously.

SEAMAN SHOT BY AIR PISTOL

Serious Injury To His Eye

A distressing incident occurred on board E.M.S. Pandora on Thursday night when leading Seaman Dawson was shot with a bullet from an air gun. The Pandora is at the Cosmopolitan Dock, undergoing refit, and an ambulance was immediately sent for to remove him to hospital. His condition is not serious, though he may unfortunately lose the sight of the injured eye. The injury was caused by accident.

A party of seamen aboard the Pandora were indulging in a little practice with the air pistol, using a matchbox as a target, when the weapon was handed to one of the men, who did not know that it was still loaded.

This man was moving the pistol about and, whilst it was pointed over his left shoulder, he accidentally pulled the trigger. Seaman Dawson was sitting some distance away from the other men, and he received the pellet full in the eye.

YOKOHAMA DEATH RIDDLE

Suicide Now Suspected

Tokyo, Jan. 12. A solution to the Yokohama death riddle—arising from the discovery in the harbour of the body of Mr. Alfred Copp, a British accountant—is believed to have been found.

The present theory of the Yokohama criminal investigation department is that Mr. Copp was a victim of suicide. This dramatic turn in the case, following on the detention for question of four foreign residents, developed from the discovery of a pistol, which was found in the water within a few inches of the spot where the body was recovered.

Deductions from the circumstances are that Mr. Copp shot himself, whilst standing on the sea-wall and that his body fell into the water carrying the pistol with it.

EVIDENCE OF WATCH

This interpretation seems also to be borne out by the fact that death apparently occurred within ten minutes of his leaving his hotel, if not before. It transpires that he left the New Grand Hotel at 12.45 a.m. The watch on his wrist had stopped at 12.55, indicating that he fell into the water within ten minutes of leaving.

The three Britons seen in his company at the Yokohama Club, Messrs. Parsons (of the Singer Sewing Machine Company), Sheffield and Attree (both from the P. and O. Corfu) have been released.

Mr. Kruger, who is a marine surveyor, is still detained by the police, but he is expected to be released almost immediately as the police are tending to the belief that the case is one of suicide.

The deceased Briton was an officer in the Royal Fusilier during the war and was Treasurer of the A.S.M.A. in Yokohama. His wife is in England.—Reuter.

SIR G. MAXWELL RESIGNS

From Tin Producers' Association

London, Jan. 12. Explaining to the London correspondent of the "Strait Times" the reasons for his resignation from the Tin Producers' Association, Sir George Maxwell declared that the Council's scheme for 8,000 tons of buffer stock would be likely to perpetuate control.

He admits that some form of control (but not the one at present being considered) might be useful for preventing violent oscillation in prices, but adds that before deciding upon any scheme producers must have a definite policy, approved and declared by the Governments of producing countries, that de-control is the objective.—Reuter.

GAR WOOD IN PLANE CRASH

Port Huron, Michigan, Jan. 12. Commodore Gar Wood, American motorboat racing ace, was involved in an aeroplane crash yesterday when the plane landed in a large puddle covered with thin ice.

It is understood that the successful defender of the Harmsworth Trophy against Mr. Hugh Scott Paine, the British ace, was uninjured.

A later cable states Gar Wood was uninjured.—Reuter.

RIOTS IN MADRID

Son Of Ex-Dictator Involved

Madrid, Jan. 12. One Fascist was shot dead and several wounded in clashes between the Fascists and workers in the Centre of the city, yesterday.

The combatants used daggers, cudgels and iron bars. Signor Jose Antonio Primo de Rivera, son of the late Spanish Dictator, General Primo de Rivera, who is the leader of the Fascists, was involved in the disturbance.

The Police charged repeatedly and 50 arrests were made. Fascists, selling their newspaper, were the cause of the outbreak.—Reuter.

JUVENILE NAZI CLUBS

Suppressed in Vienna

Vienna, Jan. 12. Nazi outrages in Austria averaged twenty daily since the New Year, and while no lives have been lost, the Government's failure to anticipate and avert the outrages has had a bad effect on the public and is creating a feeling that the Government is losing ground.

Major Fey, the vice-chancellor known as "Austria's Strongman," who is a firm believer of Fascism, has been appointed to the supreme command of the Army, Gendarmerie, and Police.

Special courts have been created to deal summarily with political offences, as ordinary Judges are too often intimidated by local feelings. All juvenile Nazi clubs comprising thousands of youths, ostensibly posing as social workers but are really revolutionary organizations, have been suppressed. Evidence accumulates that the Nazis are being spurred to a sort of guerrilla warfare by German agencies.—Reuter.

BERLIN'S STATE EXECUTIONER

Has A Nervous Breakdown

Berlin, January 12. The State executioner, Groebler, who is a laundry owner in Mecklenburg, recently resigned owing to a nervous breakdown due to overwork.

According to a Socialist report from Prague, fifty executions with the axe were carried out in Prussia since the advent of the Nazis. Groebler's nerves collapsed after beheading, with an axe, three young workmen whose screams as they were dragged to the prison were audible throughout the prison. Therefore, Van der Lubbe was executed by a new comer, Anshardt, Groebler's successor is Bollmann who is a horse slaughterer.—Reuter.

LESS UNEMPLOYMENT

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, January 12. In the paper "Arbeitertum," organ of the National-Socialist labour organization, Mr. Reinhardt, Secretary of State, gave remarkable details concerning Labour's part in the economic reconstruction of Germany. Mr. Reinhardt particularly stressed that as long as unemployment is still in existence in the Reich the first duty of the authorities will be to concentrate on this point with a view to cutting down more and finally abolishing altogether unemployment. During the new financial year budget estimates will not only show no deficit but a substantial surplus. The Secretary of State then goes to point out that following the re-employment of more than two million citizens in 1933 the turnover figures of Germany's economic life in one year rose by 14 milliard marks, six milliards of this figure representing the increase in wages. Mr. Reinhardt concludes that in 1934 the number of unemployed throughout the Reich would fall off another two millions.—Transocean Kuo Min.

GERMAN CATHOLIC DAY

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, January 11. The old German town of Gleiwitz has now definitely been chosen as the place for the German Catholic Day 1934. The exact date will be given out during the Catholic session at the capital in February. An exposition of Catholic church art will be held at the same time at Gleiwitz. Transocean Kuo Min.

by engineering experts. A five-roomed house with built-in furniture (including pneumatic beds) would weigh about two and a half tons and cost £2300.

People are never more conservative than when they have to choose the kind of house in which they are to live, but certainly at this low cost a landlord could lease at considerably lower than the brick-and-mortar house, and for this alone the experiment might be worth undertaking. In the matter of uniformity in architectural design the Colony seems entirely oblivious—also to beauty in architecture—so another pattern more or less would not matter and these Dymaxion houses can be attractively designed.

WORLD NEWS IN BRIEF

London, January 12. H.M.S. The existing duty of ten per cent. was thereupon raised to 33% as from December 17th last. The reduction in price now announced by Home manufacturers is approximately twelve per cent.—British Wireless.

GERMANY'S DEMANDS

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

London, January 12. Mussolini unhesitatingly supported Germany's claim for equality in armaments in an interview with the Daily Mail special correspondent at Rome, Mr. Ward Price, who states that according to Mussolini's view, concession of complete defensive equality to Germany is the only possible solution of the disarmament problem.

Germany, said Mussolini, has declared herself ready to renounce guns over six inches as well as tanks or more than seven tons, but she demands the right to possess defensive weapons which no other nation in Europe intends abandoning.

Since Germany's moral right of equality has been formerly recognised, Mussolini gives the opinion that it is impossible to deny the logic of her demand for defensive armaments.

Ill Duce continued by saying that the men who were now controlling the destinies of European states and who had been through the World War would greatly hesitate before embarking on warlike adventures.—Transocean Kuo Min.

E. numerous government officials and diplomats including the staff of the British and Italian Embassies, and officers of the German Army, Navy and Flying Corps.

Col. Norton spiced his lecture with plenty of humour, and over and above the technical details, dealt in a fascinating way with the landscape and folk-lore of the mysterious country of Nepal.

The lecturer's unpretentious account of the feat won him the unanimous sympathy of the audience who rewarded him with a very enthusiastic applause.—Transocean Kuo Min.

THE BATTLE OF THE BOULEVARDS

Paris Riots Assume Serious Aspect

FASCISTS AND COMMUNISTS JOIN FORCES

Tram Cars Used As Barricades

Paris, January 12.—The Battle of the Boulevards ended in the early hours of to-day but the demonstrators undaunted, are likely to return to the fray to-night. Five thousand are estimated to have participated—Fascists and Communists joining forces against a common enemy in Chiappes Columns.

Pressmen are included among the severer casualties, a reporter of the new morning paper le Jour lost an eye and two photographers were sent to hospital with broken skulls. Cafes and cinemas near the battle ground closed early, and lorries were constantly bringing up reinforcements of police and military to the vicinity.

The Parliament is the main objective of the demonstrators who, shouting, "Down with the Government," and "Down with the Police and Murderers," attempted to overwhelm cordons of police guarding the Chamber. The police charged repeatedly, belabouring the manifestants with batons and rubber truncheons, the crowds scattering to side streets and reforming in boulevards as the cavalcades passed.

The most serious clashes occurred in the Latin quarter where tramcars were used as barricades, the demonstrators scattering fireworks among the police horses and short-circuiting the electric tram current by inserting ironbars in the rails. Water and utensils were thrown down at the police from windows. The riots are described as the ugliest since the separation of the Church and the State. Police lorries used a novel method of disposing with prisoners—they were driven miles from Paris and the prisoners were then dumped and left to walk home.—Reuter.

PRESSMEN AMONG SEVERE CASUALTIES

"SCANDALS OF 1934"

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, January 12.—A packed house greeted the opening of the biggest political show seen in many a year in the Chamber here as the "Scandals of 1934" although the actual author of the drama, Stavisky, no longer could play the principal role he so cleverly had played for years with the open and silent help of numerous French officials. With the galleries unable to hold the record-breaking assembly of spectators, Chamber President, Bruissin, desperately struggled with the unpleasant problems facing the regime.

Thirteen interpellations followed each calling for the speedy apprehension of all of Stavisky's fellow malefactors. The interpellations also aimed at the reform of every section of the Government from the Secret Service to the methods of advertising National Bonds.

Contrary to expectations, Premier Chautemps took the floor in the course of an excited, debate and surprised the House by delivering a speech which amounted to an outspoken criticism of the Administration and frankly admitted that "grave mistakes have been made." The Premier gave the assurance that he would do everything in his power and leave no stone unturned in order to clear up the scandal "without the slightest regard to personal or family ties."

This remark is generally interpreted as alluding to the Premier's brother-in-law, Pressard, who at present is the capital Prosecutor-General and is held by many to be responsible for the paralysis of justice in dealing with the Stavisky frauds since 1926. Chautemps, moreover, admitted that Stavisky undoubtedly had good connections with subordinate Police and Treasury officials, and he announced that a thorough reorganization of all departments involved in the affair would take place. The Premier, in a very outspoken manner, demanded "stern regard for the public morals of France."

The Nationalist deputy Dor-manche, who spoke next, launched a virulent attack against the Government and requested that all obstacles be put aside so that the scandal may be fully cleared up.—Transocean Kuo Min.

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, January 12.—That premier Chautemps' speech in the Chamber has clarified the situation and contributed largely to consolidating the Cabinet's position is the opinion of political observers.

Le Journal, commenting on the Premier's speech on the Stavisky affair, declares that M. Chautemps dealt in a masterly fashion with this task and if no untoward incidents occur one may, without being rash, predict that M. Chautemps will carry his point.

Le Matin stresses the applause which greeted M. Chautemps' statement in nearly every part of the House. His intervention has largely contributed to overcome the difficulties, although the Opposition is still dissatisfied.—Transocean Kuo Min.

STAVISKY'S LAST REQUEST

For Wife To Educate Children

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, January 12.—The scene of the political battle which has been raging since the Stavisky scandal leaked out shifted to the Chamber on Thursday afternoon when the Opposition is bent on carrying the fight to a finish. Owing to the strenuous efforts being made by the "Patriotic Youth League" to spur on the Capital's population to partake in a mammoth anti-Government demonstration before the Palais Royal during the session on Thursday, the police had taken extensive measures and as a precaution cordoned off all streets leading to Parliament building.

The arrest on Thursday morning of a director of the Radical-Socialist newspaper "Volonte" du Barry, and the former director of the Nationalist organ "Liberte," Aymard, forms the latest development in the scandal and appears to show that the resourceful Russian who was out to swindle the whole nation had no favourites. The fact that the "Liberte," a paper which for obvious reasons has been most ruthlessly attacking the Government on the Stavisky affair, now finds itself involved in the scandal—although only indirectly according to present information—is not lacking a touch of humour. Aymard who is one of the most prominent Right Wing publicists is charged with having accepted 50,000 francs from Stavisky. He admits the truth of the charge, but maintains the money was paid to him for articles for furthering Stavisky's interests, which falls little short of the charges laid against him.

Du Barry, on the other hand, is said to have obtained 2,000,000 francs as a subsidy for the newspaper "Volonte."

Stavisky left a strangely sentimental letter to his wife, part of which was published on Thursday in a Paris journal. The master swindler exhorted his wife to educate their two children "in the path of duty and righteousness and to guard them from bad companions in order that they may grow up into respectable citizens." In a touching conclusion Stavisky deplores his inability to leave his family in better circumstances but expresses confidence that his wife will, "courageously be able to battle her way through the world as a small business woman."

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, January 12.—"Down with the robbers and burglars" cried a mob composed mainly of Royalist students who tried to force their way into the Chamber where the Deputies were assembled. While the French Chamber was tied up in heated debate battalions of police struggled for hours against the wave of demonstrators who hurled fire-crackers at the mounted

LARGER SENTENCES

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Paris, January 12.—An increased stringency of penalties for bribery has been demanded from the Ministry of Justice in recommendations made in the Chamber to-day.

The proposals aim at the bolstering up of weak spots in the French Penal Code as revealed in the onslaught on the Stavisky scandal in the session of the Chamber. The reforms proposed include longer prison sentences and high fines for corruption cases and a demand that no longer any distinction should be made between the offender and receiver of a bribe, between civil servants and officials. Also attempted crime to be punished the same as the successful swindle. Another clause provides for public office holders, as well as senators and deputies, the maximum penalty of five years imprisonment and 10,000 francs fine.—Transocean Kuo Min.

THE FATEFUL DEBATE

Paris, January 12.—The fateful debate on the Bayonne Bond Fraud which opened in the French Chamber of Deputies, has been adjourned until to-day after a spate of recriminations which brought the Ministers and Deputies concerned hastily to their feet in repudiation.

A fine impression was created by the Premier, M. Chautemps, who finally rose and spoke spiritedly without notes. He professed unconcern whether his Cabinet was overthrown or not, but expressed his determination to secure a thorough clean-up regardless of personalities or family ties (the Public Prosecutor, M. Pressard is the Premier's brother-in-law) and to prevent a repetition of such scandals.

He promised measures against the Magistrates responsible for Stavisky's trial being postponed 18 times and concluded with a rallying appeal to the Chamber to rally behind the Government to save the Parliamentary regime and public morality.

Though the Right and Centre Parties were silent prolonged cheers from the other benches signified that it is most probable that the Government will emerge safely to-day.—Reuter.

POLICE CHARGE CROWDS

Paris, January 12.—Columns of Stavisky demonstrators, with renewed turbulence, tried to reach the Chamber of Deputies during the debate. Repeated police charges countered the demonstrators who were erecting barricades in the middle of the main roads and using railings as weapons. Numerous people were injured on both sides, and plenty of arrests were made.—Reuter.

Paris, Later.—Seven hundred arrests were made during the demonstrations outside the French Parliament yesterday afternoon. Thirty police and 30 demonstrators have been admitted to the hospitals, but hundreds of others are known to have been injured.—Reuter.

Police causing the greatest confusion. Hundreds of arrests were made. At one o'clock the order was restored.—Transocean Kuo Min.

STRIKE IN WORK CAMP

Two Youths Shot Dead

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Vienna, January 12.—The Work Service Camp was strewn in little pieces about the landscape near Strem on Thursday before being deserted in a body by 444 youthful occupants. Fleeing across the boundary line of Hungary the entire company of boy mutineers were interned in a prison camp by the watchful Hungarian Border Guard.

This and other acts of violence by young volunteer labourers throughout the country is attributed to the Government's withdrawal on January 1 of State subsidies to all work camps—all of which were founded by private organization—on the ground of their strong National Socialist leanings. In Steindorf 40 "work soldiers" with wide red bands on their sleeves and carrying a Hitler banner to a demonstration in the neighbouring town of Villach were arrested without serious incident. In Klagenfurt, however, two youths were shot dead and several wounded by auxiliary police who were guarding a newspaper office.—Transocean Kuo Min.

YOUTHS DETERMINED

Budapest, January 12.—Only 200 of the 444 protesting work service youths fleeing from Austria had arrived in Hungarian territory on Thursday. Four scouts who were sent out in advance of the large group to procure suitable quarters were forced to conclude that their comrades had missed the border lines and gone astray into Yugoslavia.

A special meeting held in the Foreign Ministry here on Thursday decided to treat the young National-Socialist fugitives as political refugees and intern the whole group at a safe distance from the border.

200 of the youths who successfully made their escape by means of 17 trucks are determined to travel on into Germany if the Austrian Government refuses to foot the internment bill.—Transocean Kuo Min.

DOLLFUS UNPOPULAR

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Budapest, January 12.—The leader of the 200 Austrian Work Service youths, at present interned near here, said that they crossed the border into Hungary because they disagreed entirely with the Dollfuss dictatorship and suppressive measures. From all parts of Austria news is pouring in that large troops of work service youths are marching toward Austria's borders to leave the country Official circles declare that this step taken by the young workers was the result of National-Socialist propaganda evidenced by the fact that the desertion of the camps all over the country started at the same hour after well evolved plans.—Transocean Kuo Min.

A CHINESE INSULTED

Resentment In Germany

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright).]

Berlin, Jan. 12.—Following a "scene" between a German and a Chinese merchant in a Dueseldorf cafe, the German was to-day sentenced to six months imprisonment.

He was charged with insulting behaviour and it was decided to make an example of him. The evidence showed that the accused went up to the Chinese merchant in the restaurant, calling him a Kaffir and a dirty Jap. The Chinese merchant urged the Court to exercise leniency, but it was decided to make an example of the insulted so that all foreigners may be shown politeness.—Reuter.

BIG IMPORT SURPLUS

Recorded in 1933

London, January 12.—Pulleton and Special figures issued by the Board of Trade for 1933 show a total imports valued at £251,647,000 as compared with £152,176,000 for 1932, and exports at £80,312,000 as compared with £134,319,000, and import surplus over £191,000,000.

The figures reflect a big influx of foreign gold sent to London for safe custody. Gold valued at nearly £40,000,000 was received from France and only £9,500,000 was exported to France.

Holland continued to have a gold import surplus but this dwindled to one-sixth of the 1932 total. Gold movements to and from the U.S.A. is almost balanced.

Imports from South Africa was approximately £39,000,000, and from India £34,000,000. Other Dominions and Germany contributed considerable amounts to the total.

Of the net influx of £191,000,000, it is believed that about £105,000,000 represents the market value of gold acquired by the Bank of England; of the remaining £86,000,000, part was acquired by the Exchange and Equalisation Fund and the rest by private hoarding almost exclusively by foreigners.

The total gold received from the Dominions amounted to £137,000,000 which is roughly the equivalent amount acquired by the Bank of England and Exchange Equalisation Fund, thus disposing the charge that the authorities had withdrawn and withheld gold from foreign countries.—Reuter.

AMERICA'S PURCHASES

Washington, Jan. 12.—Up to yesterday, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation has bought $80,000,000 worth of gold since the initiation of President Roosevelt's gold policy of which 648,000 ounces was domestic gold costing $21,760,000 and approximately $27 million dollars was foreign, purchased before January 1.—Reuter.

LARGER USE OF INDIAN COTTON

Sir R. Jackson's Mission to India

London, Jan. 12.—Sir Richard Jackson, Chairman of the Indian Cotton Enquiry Committee which was set up in Lancashire following the Ottawa Conference, to promote a greater use of Indian Cotton in Lancashire, left London yesterday for India.

He will reach Bombay on January 25. This visit is a further move in the policy, which Lancashire is energetically pursuing, of encouraging and developing a greater use of Indian cotton.

Sir Richard will investigate the problems and conditions existing in India in relation to the work of the Committee, and will confer with the Indian Central Cotton Committee, its technological and other Committees, the Bombay Mill Owners' Association and the interests concerned with the marketing of cotton in various districts.

He will also visit the Sukkur Barrage in Sind and several of the botanical research stations where experiments to improve the staple of Indian cottons are being conducted.

One of the developments of the Indian Cotton Enquiry Committee has been the appointment of Mr. R. Fleming as Cotton Commissioner, who will remain in India and act as liaison officer between the raw cotton trade there and Lancashire users of Indian cotton.—British Wireless Service.

IMPORT DUTIES ON OATS

London, January 12.—An order is issued under the Import Duties Act substituting for the existing ad valorem duty of 20 per cent. on oats and oat products following the specific rates of duty as from to-morrow. Oats in grain 3 1/2 per cent., oatmeal including all cuts of oatmeal, oat groats, rolled oats, naked oats, oat flour and feeding oatmeal or ground oats, but not including oat husks, oat dust or oat husk meal 7 1/2 per cent.

The Import Duties Advisory Committee consider the new rates of duty to be high but necessary in view of the fact that the existing duty which was raised to 20 per cent. last September had been followed by increased oat imports offered at prices actually lower than before that increase. Oats as a marketable crop are of primary importance to British farmers, particularly in Scotland. The Committee intend to keep the situation under careful review, and should conditions materially change they will be prepared to recommend such variations as may appear expedient.—British Wireless.

AMERICA AND SILVER

White House Parleys Cause Comment

Washington, January 12.—Speculation over the prospects of a new monetary move by President Roosevelt has been revived and silver advocates are taking a very keen interest.

The speculation arises from conferences at the White House, at which it is believed the President and his advisers carefully scrutinized the monetary programme.

President Roosevelt first saw Mr. Eugene Black, the chairman of the Federal Reserve Board and Rene Leon, the silver authority.

He afterwards conferred with Mr. Morgenthau, the Secretary of the Treasury, and Mr. Cummings, the Attorney-General.

THREE TOPICS
The devaluation of the Federal Reserve's gold, the commodity dollar and silver were the topics, but the results have not been disclosed.

In the meantime, agitation for bimetallism is spreading in Congress, from the Silver States to those in the Wheat Belt.

Regarding the Treasury taking possession of the Federal Reserve's gold, Government supporters insist that they have authority to do this, but Senator Thomas insists that special legislation is necessary.

The Federal Reserve Board is reported to be willing to credit the Treasury with the profit from the devaluation of its gold, but to be opposed to the physical seizure of the metal in its vaults.—Reuter.

"SURGERY MURDER CASE"

Thousands Seek Admittance Into Court

Chicago, January 12.—Riotous scenes were witnessed at the opening of the sensational "Surgery Murder Case" in which Dr. Alice Wynekoop is charged with the murder of her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Rheta Wynekoop.

A crowd of two thousand men and women fought to gain admittance into the Court room and police reinforcements were required to form the spectators into orderly queues.

The accused arrived in Court in a bath chair but was ordered to leave it and walk to her counsel's table. Rheta was found dead on the operating table in the doctor's surgery with a bullet in her heart on November 21. last.—Reuter.

INFREINGEMENT OF N.R.A. EMBLEM

Washington, Jan. 12.—The United States Customs have seized 4,000 cases of Japanese tunney fish bearing the National Recovery Administration's "Blue Eagle" emblem which may only be used in the United States on goods produced under the N. R. A. conditions.—Reuter.

FAREWELL TO SIR GEORGE CADOGAN

Dinner Party At Reform Club

London, Jan. 12.—Sir George Cadogan, the recently appointed British Minister to China, was the guest of honour at a farewell dinner party given by the Foreign Secretary, Sir John Simon, at the Reform Club, last night.

The guests included the Chinese Minister to London, Mr. Quo Tachai, Mr. Wei Cheng-chün, Viscount Cecil, Sir Austen Chamberlain, Sir Philip Sassoon and Sir Roderick Jones.

Messages of good wishes for Sir George Cadogan were received from the Premier, Mr. Ramsay MacDonald, Lord Cusheford, and Mr. Arthur Henderson.

Sir George Cadogan was, for several years, head of the League of Nations Department at the Foreign Office.—Reuter.

London, January 12.—The guests attending the dinner included Sir John Pratt, Sir George MacDonald, Sir Robert Vansittart, Major General H. de Courcy Martelli, the commander of the Shanghai Defence Forces in 1927 who has since accepted the government of Jersey.—Reuter.

S'HAH - CANTON AIR SERVICE

A competent official of the China National Aviation Company when interviewed by Reuter, was reticent as regards the reports that arrangements were being made to use Hong Kong as a stopping place for the Shanghai-Canton Airmail Service.

He said that Hong Kong was naturally desirable as a stopping point but that did not imply that any definite arrangements had up till now been concluded.

The speaker indicated, however, that permission from the Colony was sought several months ago and finally suggested that enquiries be made in Hong Kong.—Reuter.

FURTHER PLANS

Canton, Jan. 12.—After completing the three main lines, Shanghai-Peking, Chingtao-Chungching and Canton-Shanghai, the Chinese linking of Hankow, Changsu, Lungchow, Kwumming and Chungching, is included. Stations in each of these cities will be established after the trial flight.

In order to have more accommodation for passengers, the company is also going to put up-to-date planes on the service.

According to the report of the South-west Aviation Co., the first trial flight on the Canton-Lungchow line will take place before the 20th inst.—Central Press.

HOME FOOTBALL

NORTH EAST WEST SOUTH

The Better Hole.—Ever since Burnley found Jack Hill, later to become England's pivot, at Hettton-le-Hole, they have kept a close watch on the Durham mining village, and have been well rewarded for their vigilance. In quick succession they have secured Mantle, Jack Kelly, Hall, Hughes and Graham from the "better hole," and their latest capture, Hetherington, a goalkeeper, also hails from the village.

Hull Let Him Go.—Now that New Brighton are out of the Cup they'll be able to ask their own price for Barley, whose work in attack has been so impressive. Barley has been eyed for some weeks by the scouts, who saw him earn that replay for the Rovers and also play a good game in the return. But what will Hull think when Barley is the subject of a big cheque exchange? They didn't think him worth a bean.

Newcastle's Search.—Very often Manager Andy Cunningham, of Newcastle, looks enviously towards his neighbours, Sunderland and Middlesbrough, and thinks what he would give for either of their centre-halves. McDougall and Griffiths. To be quite candid, neither Betton nor Davidson the old Liverpool player, fill the bill these days, and if the right man was forthcoming, a cheque for £5,000 would change hands at once.

O'Grady A Broth Of A Boy.—Although Manager Tommy Bromilow, of Burnley, had the utmost faith in young O'Grady when he tried him out at centre-forward against Lincoln, not in his wildest dreams did he think the boy would celebrate his promotion with a sparkling hat-trick. It falls to very few players to make such an auspicious commencement, and if only he keeps it up 75 per cent. of Burnley's troubles will have ended.

Hanford Is Wanted.—Remember as telling you when Newcastle signed Ronnie Williams from Swansea, that they would have liked centre-half Hanford? Well, the visit of the Swans to Bolton was not wasted, and Newcastle had both eyes open all right. They nearly got Hanford when they signed Williams, but some difficulty obtruded and the deal fell through. Hope the Tynesiders were aware that they were far from being the sole club represented at Burnden Park.

Groves Proves His Worth.—Trust Manager George Jobey of Derby to know the goods when he sees it. But for once in a while people couldn't understand why on earth he wanted Groves from Blackburn. Surely if the Rovers didn't want him a more accomplished club like the County wouldn't have room for him? Well, if you've seen Groves since he became a White Shirt you'll beg Jobey's pardon and realise that his judgment has been justified up to the hilt. His goal from 30 yards in four minutes had the Villa gasping.

They Wanted Allen.—The transfer of William Boyd from Clyde to Sheffield United should take a load off the mind of Mr. "Teddy" Davison, the Sheffield United secretary who since the transfer of Dunne has been chasing the length and breadth of the country seeking a successor. Last week the Walsall club were approached for Alson, and Northampton for Davey, but the surprise item was that of approaching Newcastle for Jack Allen. Before joining Newcastle, Allen was popular in Sheffield as the Wednesday's centre-forward.

Alson, the Walsall centre-forward, has had the spotlight on him almost since the season was begun; there is no doubt that many clubs have watched him with a degree of envy. It is also a practical certainty that he will be transferred before long. Walsall may not have great cause for alarm if, and when, they lose such a good goal-scorer for I understand that Wiles, the former Queen's Park Rangers player, is doing so well at centre-forward in the reserve side that the loss of Alson will not be greatly felt.

Some people think Wiles is the better player of the two. He certainly has greater experience. A great club player and fine shot, with heaps of courage.

Crystal Palace are still moving round after players. There is no likelihood of Oldham Athletic changing their minds about "Pete" Quaker, who has attracted many League club representatives. At more than one place where the Palace people have made an inquiry, they have been asked to consider transferring players in part exchange. They refuse.

Manchester City were prepared to pay a big fee for Alan Hall, the Spurs young reserve centre-forward, with about 30 London Combination goals to his credit this season. They even approached Tottenham. There is nothing to add. You know exactly how Spurs would reply.

It was stated last week a former London half-back who went to France at the beginning of the season, has since returned, and is not palpitatingly eager to go back again.

He was Pollard, formerly of West Ham. I am assured that his French club imposed a fine of £80 upon him for leaving. I am also assured that if this tale can be straightened out—an application has been made to the F.A.—Pollard will sign for a London Third Division side.

Millwall may get a clever young goalkeeper from Scotland. Brown, of Glenburn Rovers, and a brother of the Manchester United outside right, has attracted attention. An offer is expected, Glenburn Rovers, by the way, play in Ayrshire.

THAT'S ODD

Carlisle field three schoolmasters in their team—Clarke, Stevenson and Gray.

In five consecutive matches, Bradford City have had five different players in the inside-right berth.

Because they were losing 2-1 in a Gravesend League match, Northfleet Old Boys changed their goalkeeper. They lost 10-1.

Goodall, the Huddersfield International full-back, has played in 375 matches for the Leeds-rod club, yet in his first three seasons there he played once only.

The Austrians should go down in history as the early birds of football. Last Wednesday, when they played Liverpool, they were on the Anfield ground at 9 a.m.

Liverpool, Wolves and West Ham each have a Deacon in their service. John James and Richard respectively. They are brothers and all play inside-left.

Did you ever hear of "coppers" being ordered off? In a mid-week cup-tie between Greenock Police and Hamilton Police no fewer than three players received marching orders.

Newcastle must be the champion home drawists in the Football and Central Leagues. The First and Central League sides have drawn at St. James' Park on no fewer than ten occasions this season.

Birmingham have played no fewer than 35 men at centre-forward since the war, this despite the fact that Joe Bradford, one of their best ever has, during that period, served them for the best part of a dozen seasons.

Sold A Pup.—An extraordinary meeting has been called by the committee of a well-known Scottish junior club to consider disciplinary action on two of their fellow members who were sent after the signature of a juvenile centre-half. The sportsy ones having failed to induce the player to sign, bought a greyhound with the £5 signing fee!

Links with "Brun"—A queer feature of the Cup draw, from a Black Country standpoint, is that Aston Villa's journey to Chesterfield, whose manager, Mr. W. H. Harvey, was once associated with Birmingham as player and official, and West Bromwich visit Chelsea, whose manager, Mr. A. L. Knighton, once managed Birmingham.

Tidbits of the Cup Ties

Which would you say was the most intriguing of the Cup-ties? Each and all have their special appeal. It's a grand round, and should provide rousing battles and attract fine gates, but I think the tie that will excite the greatest curiosity is that between Luton Town and the Arsenal.

Everyone will be interested to see if the Bedfordshire club can do what Walsall did last season, and if they can repeat their own performance against the Spurs in the Fourth Round.

What an honour it would be to have the scalps of the two crack London clubs in their belt in successive seasons! And what red lights there would be at Highbury if they should win!

Why Shocks Exist

It has been well said that there is nothing certain in a Cup-tie.

Even the mightiest of the challengers cannot take anything for granted.

The little "uns" have a "nasty way" of "em" in these games. With everything to gain and nothing to lose in the way of prestige when they come against the crack-jacks they let themselves go, and it is the big clubs that have to watch their steps.

That's how the shocks come about and that's what the Arsenal will be up against at Luton, though I'm not expecting they will have another disappointment.

Wednesday Beware!

There's plenty of scope for surprises in the round.

Blackpool cannot afford to view their visit to Cheltenham with complacency, nor Sheffield Wednesday their shorter journey to Rotherham, especially after the bitter disappointment they experienced at the hands of Chesterfield last season.

And that should remind Aston Villa that they have no walk-over in the town of the crooked spire. The Villa have indeed a hard row to hoe, but like Blackpool and the Wednesday they should be equal to the task, and what a shock it would be if Bolton Wanderers were beaten by Halifax Town at Burnden Park. More unlikely things have happened, but I think the Wanderers will be seen in the next round.

Rough on Division III.

Everything would seem to point to a considerable thinning of the ranks of the Third Division clubs. There are 18 in the field, and the probabilities would seem to be that only four or five will survive.

Tramere Rovers, Reading, Crystal Palace, Brighton and Hove Albion would seem the most likely, and possibly Charlton Athletic, though Port Vale will doubtless have another opinion about the outcome of the contest at the Valley.

Gateshead, too, may fancy their chance at Worthington, but on their own ground the Cumberland club have proved themselves a hard side to master, and the chances would appear to be that they will be the only non-League club in the Fourth Round.

Old Feuds Revived.

Though for the most part the rivals will meet as strangers in the Cup competition the draw revives many old feuds. Bristol City and Derby County, for instance, will be engaged in their fourth conflict and their third since the war.

The first clash was in the semi-final in 1908-9 when after a 1-1 draw at Stamford Bridge, the City won the replay at St. Andrew's by 2-1, only to be beaten by Manchester United in the Final by an only goal obtained by "Sandy" Turnbull.

The next fust was in 1922-3 when, in the Second Round the County were revenge with a 3-0 win at Bristol, and in 1929-30 they achieved another 5-1 victory in the Third Round at the Baseball Grounds. Will they complete the "hat-trick"?

Cup and Lip.

On form they assuredly ought to do, though no club has more reason to remember the old tag, "there's many a slip" than they have.

Manchester City and Blackburn Rovers will be fighting a rubber game at Maine-road, if it is the third time they have been drawn together and each has won once, and on each other's ground.

The Rovers got their "blow in first." It was in the opening round in 1908-9 when, after a 2-2 draw at home, they won the tie at Manchester by 1-0. The City's turn came seven years later. They were again drawn to play at Blackburn; this time in the Third Round, and they won by 2-1.

Tees v. Wear.

This is one of the few instances where local rivals clash, and another is provided in the meeting of Sunderland and Middlesbrough, at Roker Park, a game which is certain to set the North-East agog. The only previous Cup clash of these rivals of Tees and Wear was as far back as 1897-98, when after Sunderland triumphed in a replay at home by 4-2, after drawing

The Police and R. A. are meeting in the Challenge Shield (first round) to-day, while the Police v. Athletic match down for Sunday has been postponed.

St. Joseph's look like going to the head of the table as they meet the Navy at Caroline Hill.

The other game between the Lincolns and Borderers on the Railway ground appears to be a "cert," on present form, for the Borderers.

Both these games will be watched by a large crowd, that on the peninsula being the greater attraction.

The Club will go to King's Park to meet Recreio and are confident in returning with both points.

East Lancashire will receive Kowloon on the Garrison ground. Kowloon fully expect to secure the points.

The senior shield game should be a very even tussle between the Police and Gunners within the race course. The Police team cannot settle down and the constant changes in the team does not improve their team work. Still they are good enough for a win.

South China will be hard pressed by the Young Indians in Division II, although it is expected that they will win, while the Borderers should have an easy game on the Railway ground.

The Lincolns will have to go all out to secure full points from the Athletic on the Chatham Road ground, and the Navy look like maintaining their position in Division I, although they may have to bring up some of the second team in the seniors this week.

The winners in Division III, should be Lincolns, Borderers, Recreio and R.A.F.

On Sunday at Sookunpoo the R. A. and South China meet in the senior league and South China should win by a big margin.

2-2 on the ground of their opponents. Middlesbrough successfully protested against the winners on the ground of professionalism, and were awarded the tie.

The clash of Wolverhampton and Newcastle brings to mind the great final at Crystal Palace in 1908, when the Tynesiders, then at the peak of their fame, were soundly beaten by a Second Division club, the Wanderers, win by 3-1 in no way exaggerated their superiority. This is the only previous Cup meeting of the pair.

Both Sheffield clubs will be paired against new opponents. The United have never met Birmingham, nor have the Wednesday encountered Rotherham.

Chelsea's Cup meetings with West Bromwich Albion have been restricted to one game at Stamford Bridge in 1922, which the Albion won by 4-2, and on the season's form some similar result is probable.

Holders' Peril.

There are pliant prospects about such games as Burnley v. Bury, Manchester United v. Portsmouth, and others, but perhaps the spiciest item is the meetings of Tottenham Hotspur with the holders of the trophy, Everton, at White Hart Lane.

There is the material here for a great game, with a rubber at stake. Each club has a victory to its credit. Everton obtained the only goal of the First Round tie at Goodison in 1907-08, and thereby avenged a 2-1 defeat on the same ground in the corresponding stage of the 1904-05 competition.

Ground advantage now favours the "Spurs." Will they uphold tradition in bringing about the early dismissal of the holders? Time alone will tell.

What is certain, however, is the assurance of unexpected results. The giant killer lurks among the sixty-four clubs engaged, and some of the "big guns" are heading for a fall.

WHY BRITONS TRAVEL "FOREIGN"

Irkome Restrictions On Lines To The East

British passenger shipping to the East is suffering acutely from foreign competition. An increasing number of British passengers, including civil and military officers whose passages are paid by the Government, travel to and from India on Italian vessels. Occasionally an Italian liner lands at Bombay more British passengers than the weekly mail steamer under our own flag.

The effects of this are doubly serious now that passenger traffic is slack. One of our principal companies has abandoned its Bombay service, and the vessels that were employed on it are laid up. One may assume that the idleness of these ships is partly due to Italian competition at Bombay.

It may be argued that passengers are not profitable on the intermediate class of vessel, such as most of those trading to the East. But passengers may make all the difference between profit and loss on a voyage. There must be reason for this preference for travelling by foreign lines. To begin with, there is the Briton's anxiety to give the foreigner a square deal, which may be carried so far as to grant him preference. It is the characteristic which leads him to accept German binoculars as superior to British, and his wife to assume that toilet requisites must necessarily be good if made in Paris. And he travels on a foreign vessel.

British Complex
Behind this, if he knew it, is a complex of national superiority. British and everything British can stand alone; they have no need for his support. They are British, so nothing could break them. The European foreigner is different. His sense of nationality and of pride in his flag are nearer the surface.

His country and his country's trade demand his loyalty in their struggle for greatness, and in their greatness is reflected his own.

An Italian passenger at sea, passing a vessel flying his flag, feels a thrill of pride because it is Italian, and in the sense of part ownership which his citizenship confers. I suggest that the Briton, unless the vessel he sees is one of our greatest and most famous, takes it as a matter of course. The sea is Britain's and the fullness thereof. He forgets that, bereft of his loyalty, it cannot for long remain so.

Immediately after the war, when the only Italian and German vessels trading East were small and uncomfortable, Italians and Germans travelled by them, and took pride in the fact that, although those ships were not the best they sailed under their own flag, and were not obliged to pay a foreigner to take them home.

However, that trait of ours is a minor reason for the popularity of foreign lines. The British traveller says, "If an Italian ship or a Jap offers me better value for money, I'll travel by her." The foreign competitor offers him a free cinema, occasionally free wine, its stewards are more courteous and obliging, and it imposes fewer irksome restrictions.

On the strength of a subsidy foreign lines can advertise attractions which, though comparatively petty, undoubtedly draw passengers. We cannot afford expensive counter attractions without subsidised economies elsewhere. And we have already economised until the officers of British merchant vessels are the lowest paid among the European maritime nations.

Time No Object In The Saar

[Special to the "Hong Kong Daily Press" (Copyright.)]

Saarbrücken, January 12. The League appointed Government Commission of the Saar Basin, which for months past has been busy imposing a series of repressive decrees on the Saar population in order "to save it from the National-Socialist peril" has drawn up another decree providing that in case of emergency all public utilities may be put under State control.

The Saar region's Parliament which has been asked to pass the measure on Thursday rejected the decree by an overwhelming majority, the spokesman of "the German front" embracing all Bourgeois groups, stressing there was no call whatever for far-reaching regulations by the Government Commission in view of the fact that the day of the plebiscite on which the Saar population will decide its own destiny is only 364 days off.—Transocean Kuo Min.

Holidays Dislocate Market: Business Small

Messrs. Fraser and Company's Singapore share market of January 2 states:

Business in the local share market during the past week has been on a small scale only, the seasonal dislocation of activities being in evidence owing to the incidence of Christmas and New Year holidays.

In reviewing the principal events of interest to Malaya which occurred during 1933, it is satisfactory to be able to record reports of a slow but steady improvement in general trading conditions throughout the S.S. & F.M.S. which has been reflected by increased activity in the local share market resulting in, with but few exceptions, an all round substantial events in quotations.

RUBBER.—The price opened in January at 2 13/16d. per lb. the lowest price during the twelve months being 2d. on the 1st March, the highest 4 17/32d. on 18th July and closing at 4 5/16d. per lb. The value of Rubber has remained either side of 4d. per lb. since mid-October and this steadiness may be in part ascribed to the improved consumption figures throughout the World, but a certain amount of artificial support is constantly in evidence in the market from speculators who are anxious to participate in any appreciation which might take place in the price of the commodity, should any form of agreement be forthcoming regarding restriction of rubber production between the several countries concerned. A somewhat remarkable succession of reports and rumours have emanated from Europe during 1933 regarding the prospects of restriction, and there appears to be a growing opinion that some sort of control will eventually be brought into operation.

Offerings of good-class Rubber shares have been steadily absorbed at advancing prices which will be well illustrated by a few records of quotation in January and December 1933 respectively viz:

REMOVING PAINT FROM GLASS.

If you have your house repainted outside this spring the painters are bound to splash the windows, or at least smear the edges of the glass panes.

In the ordinary way the paint is difficult to remove if you have no turpentine, but rub the marks with glass paper or a stick which has been dipped in hot vinegar, and you will find that they disappear quite easily.

MEMORIAL TO W. L. PATTENDEN

Appeal For Contributions

There are many friends of the late Walter Leslie Pattenden who feel that his memory should be perpetuated in this Colony, where for thirty years he lived, worked and served his fellowmen.

For this reason it is proposed to erect in St. John's Cathedral, to which he was devotedly attached, a Memorial Tablet, which by its permanence will secure that W. L. Pattenden be not forgotten.

Owing to the generosity of a local firm, the cost of the tablet will be small, and it is thought that the amount will soon be over-subscribed. It is so the surplus will be used for the provision of a Book of Services, which by its constant use will be a frequent reminder of him for whom those services were a continual inspiration.

Contributions, no matter how small, towards this memorial fund will be welcomed and acknowledged by either the Right Rev. Dean A. Swann or Mr. P. S. Cagidy.

REMOVING PAINT FROM GLASS.

If you have your house repainted outside this spring the painters are bound to splash the windows, or at least smear the edges of the glass panes.

In the ordinary way the paint is difficult to remove if you have no turpentine, but rub the marks with glass paper or a stick which has been dipped in hot vinegar, and you will find that they disappear quite easily.
